As traffic specialists, we recognize the need to grow and develop along with the region our Harrisburg area office serves. "Our mission to provide responsive transportation solutions to our clients remains our paramount goal!" affirms Joseph McMahon, P.E., founder and CEO. "This location will better serve existing clients and allow us to pursue new opportunities."

For the past five years, McMahon's Harrisburg area office has proudly served several townships and planning organizations in Cumberland County, as well as many others in Dauphin, Adams, Cumberland, Franklin, York, Lancaster, Lebanon, and Perry Counties. In this role, we have become knowledgeable of and sensitive to the issues related to these municipalities' responsibilities to provide effective transportation planning, design, and improvement implementation to accommodate growth within their boundaries. We apply the same sensitivity and knowledge when working with our many private clients, developers and corporations, in conjunction with their land development proposals in other central and western Pennsylvania municipalities. Our relocation to Mechanicsburg will not only accommodate our continuing growth, but also provide us with many more of the resources McMahan needs to provide continued outstanding service to our clients.

McMahon's three Pennsylvania offices, located in Mechanicsburg, Cumberland County, Fort Washington, Montgomery County (corporate headquarters), and Exton, Chester County, employ a combined 70 of the company's 120 full-time employees. It also has offices in New Jersey, Florida, and Massachusetts. McMahon's services specialize in transportation planning/traffic studies, traffic signal/ITS design and permitting, highway/intersection design and permitting, survey, GIS, and construction inspection for both public and private clients.
